

Web Developer

FPW Media is a rapidly growing creative studio of 40+ team members and located in Springfield, Oregon. From photography, video production, and graphic design to web design, branding concepts, and more—we manage and execute all of our clients' marketing needs. As a vertically integrated branding partner consisting of three highly integrated divisions—Brand, Films, and Merch—we are uniquely positioned to perform the vast majority of our deliverables in-house. A steadfast commitment to consistency, quality, and quick turnarounds has powered FPW's continued growth, year over year.

About the Position

This is a full-time, in-house position primarily focused on building branded marketing and e-commerce websites to bolster our customers' digital presence. A competitive candidate would be responsible for all aspects of the aforementioned builds within WordPress, Shopify, and the occasional custom solution. The candidate would work within our digital team, as well as collaborate with our design, copy, and project management teams throughout the build process.

We're looking for an experienced web developer who enjoys working as a small team to achieve our goals as well as individually on projects to provide a quality product. We want to develop beautiful websites that go beyond what other agencies can offer, and we're looking for the right developer to join our team.
